8 CHARLES V. REED,

9 Plaintiff,

10 v.

11 STATE OF WASHINGTON, et al.,

12 Defendants.

Case No. C10-5146BHS

ORDER ADOPTING REPORT
AND RECOMMENDATION

13 This matter comes before the Court on the Report and Recommendation (“R&R”) of 14 the Honorable Karen L. Strombom, United States Magistrate Judge (Dkt. 59) and Plaintiff’s
15 (“Reed”) objections. Dkt. 60. The Court having considered the R&R, Reed’s objections, 16 Defendants’ response, and the remaining record, adopts the R&R for the reasons discussed 17 herein.

18 I. FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

19 This matter arises out of Reed’s challenge to his medical treatment and the prison
20 grievance process while incarcerated at the McNeil Island Corrections Center. See, e.g., Dkt.
21 59 (R&R). On June 16, 2011, the magistrate judge issued an R&R to this Court, which 22 recommended granting Defendants’ motion for summary judgment on the basis that Reed
23 failed to exhaust his administrative remedies as required under the Prison Litigation Reform
24 Act of 1995 (“PLRA”), 42 U.S.C. § 1997e.

25 On June 30, 2011, Reed objected to the R&R. Dkt. 60. Therein, Reed argues, among 26 other things, that he did file a grievance and could not exhaust his remedies because the 27

1 remedies were made unavailable. See id. On July 14, 2011, Defendants responded in
2 opposition to Reed’s objections. Dkt. 61.

3 The Court finds the R&R to accurately reflect the facts of this case. A full discussion
4 of the facts can be found within the R&R. Dkt. 59 at 1-5. In short, the magistrate judge
5 found that (1) Reed, believing that his medical needs were not properly tended to, filed but 6 did not fully appeal his grievance regarding his medical treatment; (2) the Department of 7 Corrections has a four-level, formal grievance process that is well known among inmates;
8 and (3) Reed did not grieve or appeal the administrative withdrawal of his Level II appeal.

9 II. DISCUSSION

10 A. Standard

11 The Prison Litigation Reform Act of 1995 (PLRA) mandates that:

12 No action shall be brought with respect to prison conditions under 13 section 1979 of the Revised Statutes of the United States (42 U.S.C. § 1983), 14 or any other federal law, by a prisoner confined in any jail, prison or other correctional facility, until such administrative remedies as are available are exhausted.

15 42 U.S.C. § 1997e (emphasis added).

16 “There is no question that exhaustion is mandatory under the PLRA and that 17 unexhausted claims cannot be brought to court.” Jones v. Bock, 549 U.S. 199, 211 (2007).
18 Inmates must exhaust their prison grievance remedies before filing suit if the prison
19 grievance system is capable of providing any relief or taking any action in response to the 20 grievance. “Congress has mandated exhaustion clearly enough, regardless of the 21 relief offered through administrative procedures.” Booth v. Churner, 532 U.S. 731, 740, 742
22 (2001).

23 Based on the foregoing, applicable standard, the magistrate judge determined that 24 Reed failed to exhaust his administrative remedies. Specifically, the magistrate judge found 25 as follows:

26 Here, it is undisputed that there is a well-established grievance 27 procedure available to Washington state inmates, including Reed. The record reflects that Reed filed one grievance relating to the medical treatment of his

1 knee, the grievance was denied, and Reed appealed the denial. ECF No. 42,
2 Id., ¶ 13, Exhs. S and T. After he failed to appear for callouts on December 13,
3 2007 and December 17, 2007, his grievance was administratively withdrawn.
4 Id., ¶ 14, Exh. U. Reed failed to appeal his grievance to the next level of 5 appeal available to him. In addition, Reed did not grieve or appeal the 6 administrative withdrawal of his Level II appeal. Id., ¶ 15. Reed does not
7 dispute these facts, but claims that Defendants' motion for summary judgment
8 should be denied because he requires further discovery. He has not shown,
9 however, that further discovery will lead to evidence creating a genuine issue
10 of material fact as to whether he exhausted his administrative remedies.

11 Dkt. 59 at 11 (emphasis added).

12 B. Reed's Objections

13 Before the magistrate judge, Reed argued that Defendants' motion for summary
14 judgment should be denied for want of more discovery, and Reed made the following
15 arguments:

16 Reed alleges that Defendants improperly delayed his request for knee
17 surgery and after Reed filed a grievance to obtain the needed medical 18 attention, Defendants retaliated against him by attempting to transfer him to an 19 out of state facility. [Dkt.] 24 [at] 3. He also claims that Defendants "hindered"
20 and "obstructed" the normal grievance process to prevent the timely review of 21 his serious medical condition. Id. Reed asserts a 42 U.S.C. § 1983 claim
22 premised on alleged violations of the First, Fifth, Eighth and Fourteenth
23 Amendments. Reed also asserts violations of the State Constitution and claims 24 for negligence, breach of warranty, and outrage.

25 Dkt. 59 at 2. The magistrate judge limited the R&R to the strict exhaustion
26 requirements of the PLRA. Reed's objections to the R&R are equally limited herein
27 bk, ecause of the strict requirement for exhaustion under the PLRA, discussed above.

28 Therefore, the only question before the Court is whether Reed exhausted his administrative remedies. He did not. Reed argues that the grievance process was made unavailable, but he has failed to provide competent evidence that undermines the magistrate judge's findings that he failed to file a grievance regarding the grievance process. See Dkt. 59 at 11-12. Reed also fails to supply competent evidence to contradict the magistrate judge's finding that he failed to appeal his grievance regarding medical malpractice to the final level. See, e.g., id; see also Dkt. 60.

Therefore, because Reed failed to exhaust his administrative remedies as required by the PLRA, the magistrate judge properly recommended granting Defendants' motion for summary judgment.

III. ORDER

The Court having considered the R&R, Plaintiff's objections, and the remaining record, does hereby find and order as follows:

- (1) The R&R is ADOPTED;
- (2) Defendants' motion for summary judgment is GRANTED; and
- (3) This matter is CLOSED.
